Phase 1 -- Planning your article		Should take 40% of the time
1.	Define the Topic.
2.	Define the Exact Audience: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Beginner vs. Experienced</li> <li>• Seeking a Basic vs. Deep understanding</li> </ul>
3.	Define the Overall message of the piece.
4.	Define the objective (“the angle”) of the piece: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• To inform</li> <li>• To Persuade</li> <li>• To Provoke an Action</li> </ul>
5.	Consider Persuasion (Conversion) Techniques: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Pathos-Appeal to Emotion               <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ Metaphors (It will be like a _____),</li> <li>○ Use words to paint a picture.</li> </ul> </li> <li>• Logos-Appeal to Reason/Logic               <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ i.e., a great investment,</li> <li>○ present the arguments (research shows...).</li> </ul> </li> <li>• Ethos-Appeal to Authority               <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ We’ve been doing this for years.</li> <li>○ We’ve got these special qualifications.</li> <li>○ Our clients have taught us...</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	List Persuasive Ideas
6.	Working Title:

Plan the Content of the Article, Then Plan the Structure

A great tool for brainstorming, organizing, and outlining is MindMeister.

1.	Brainstorm a list of all the topics and subtopics
2.	Bundle Related Ideas Together.  Or Consider using Inverted pyramid: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Put the key point in the first paragraph.</li> <li>• Who, What, When, Where, and Why.</li> <li>• (Google loves this.)</li> </ul>
3.	Put the Ideas in order under Headings and Subheadings.

Our Voice and Tone is...	But Not....	✓
Practical and Relevant	Generic
Professional	Academic
Sometimes surprised	Sensationalized
Down to earth	Bloggy
Action Oriented	Rigid or rule focused
Easy going	Sloppy
Concerned about misinformation	Paternalistic
Respectful	Weak or apologetic
A Solid Critique	Disparaging or Dogmatic
Confident	Proud or Conceited
Sometimes a little Playful	Snarky
Upbeat about diet restrictions when needed	Insensitive to the loss of preferred foods
Evidence Based	Disrespectful of emerging theory or expert opinion
3 rd Person: i.e., "A person with..." or "they..."	1 st or 2 nd Person: i.e., "I/me/us/you/etc." Except when writing "personal asides".
Appropriately referenced	A Term Paper Bibliography

Phase 2-- Writing		Should take 20% of the time
Tip	Writing and editing require different skills. Leave mistakes and second thoughts for the editing process.	Try the Pomodoro Technique-25 minutes writing and 5 minute break.
Introduction	Should make visitor want to continue reading. Use a hook: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Ask a question/promise an answer</li> <li>• Present a surprising statistic</li> <li>• Condense your central message</li> </ul>
Body	The Process: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. List the Headings</li> <li>2. Plan the Core Sentences for each heading. (A core sentence presents the problem.)</li> <li>3. When all the headings are written, fill in each paragraph with explanation and elaboration.</li> </ol>	Summarize each heading in a few words. (These Summary Statements may make good Subheadings)

Add a Story	Stories Resonate More Than Facts Real-life examples make nutrition articles more relatable, memorable, enjoyable, clear, and inspirational. Anecdotes and personal stories bring out human emotions that make your writing resonate emotionally with a reader enough to move them to act on the information. Just check to see that the story aligns with the “message” of the article. Facts Are Objective, Stories Add Emotion, But Mix Them and You Have Another Blog Dietitians want to keep the authoritative tone of the articles on the NutriScape Project website. To accomplish this while including emotional content, anecdotes and personal stories are formatted separately from the article’s main informative content.
	CHARACTERISTICS PERSONAL STORIES: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li><input type="checkbox"/> “Real people” (or characters based on real people) are in the story.</li> <li><input type="checkbox"/> There is an emotion that you want your reader to feel. Define it.</li> <li><input type="checkbox"/> Include specific sights, smells, physical feelings to engage your reader. Use these physical descriptions of details that "show" rather than “tell about something”.</li> <li><input type="checkbox"/> There is a happy ending, a poignant loss, or a lesson learned.</li> <li><input type="checkbox"/> Use “Rule of Three”. This is a list of 2 followed by a surprise.</li> <li><input type="checkbox"/> Replace with contractions: I am, you are, he is, she is, we are.</li> </ul>
	4 Story Elements:
	1. Introduce a relatable main character
	2. Introduce problem or conflict affecting the main character.
3. Action: Something happens.
4. Solution = new situation where problem/conflict no longer exists.
Conclusion:	Sum up the key points, restate the message of the article, Encourage an action.	End on a high note.

	Phase 3-- Editing	40% of the time
Reading Ease	Make it Easy To Read: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Don't show off-If it's too fine a point to be of use to the reader, cut it out or label it as a detail.</li> <li>• Dietitians have the curse of knowledge— read your work from the reader's perspective and clarify concepts.</li> <li>• Easier to be wordy than concise-check each sentence.</li> <li>• Use shorter words and shorter sentences.</li> <li>• Reformat content into bulleted or numbered lists.</li> </ul>	When the reader has to work hard, they'll just click away.
	Load your article into the Hemingway editor. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Rewrite passive voice sentences.</li> <li>• Rewrite very hard sentences.</li> <li>• Shoot for 6th grade reading level.</li> <li>• Fix spelling, grammar, and punctuation.</li> <li>• Each paragraph should start with the core sentence and be 3-6 sentences</li> <li>• The ideal length is 350-600 words.</li> </ul> Let your computer read it aloud. If the text reader stumbles, some of your readers will too. Windows machines: Narrator Program Mac Computers: [option + escape]
Write Meta Description for SEO (Search Engine Optimization)
Meta Description	The meta description is the description that google displays right after the page's URL. (Websites Use the Yoast plugin.) Meta description should: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Include the keyword or keyphrase,</li> <li>• Use Active voice,</li> <li>• Involve a call to action.</li> </ul> Check competitor articles on google and highlight differences in the meta description.	The Best 155 Character Article Summary

Add Transitions These words make your writing clearer to the reader and improve SEO.
Systematically Analyze Relationships Add Transition Words The Glue Between Sentences And Paragraphs		😊 This can be a struggle at first but gets easier with practice...
1. Systematically Analyze Each Paragraph to find relationships and add transition words.		Add transitions words from the table below to show relationships between ideas.  Don't add too many Transition words. When in doubt, Leave them out.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• cause and effect</li> <li>• clarification</li> <li>• contrast</li> <li>• example</li> <li>• emphasis</li> <li>• addition</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• enumeration</li> <li>• ambiguity</li> <li>• time</li> <li>• similarity</li> <li>• summary</li> <li>• conclusions</li> </ul>
2. Systematically Analyze Each Sentence to find relationships and add transition words.

Write the Title IF THE HEADLINE FAILS TO MAKE THE READER CLICK, THE POST FAILS.

- State the benefit so you can make it clear in the headline. What's in it for your reader?
- The title is high priority. Spend significant time choosing it.
- The headline makes a promise. The article delivers on that promise, or it's clickbait.
- Recipe posts must use an adjective in the title.
- Search Google for similar post titles and make sure your title stands out among them.
- Write at least 5 different headlines using the formulas from the table below.
- Choose the best one using Coschedule.com Headline Analyzer.
